ABOUT HER :

Catherine Bertaud lives in Redon, Brittany.

HER BACKGROUND :

Self-taught, she has devoted a significant part of her time to painting for the past fifteen years or so. She has taken part in group exhibitions in Paris and Brittany, and has collaborated with several galleries and shops in western France.

HER WORK :

A line, an idea, a character that emerges, the meeting of drawing and the artist, and stories waiting to be invented. These graphic works consist of blocks of colour outlined by a line to create contrasts and emphasise the forms. The characters are static and, as such, enigmatic. Their duplication, the deliberate omission of certain details and the presence of often improbable shadows are intended to fuel the imagination. The artist thus sketches out a story and offers those who linger before the painting the opportunity to continue it by projecting their own experiences, desires, senses and creativity. As a result, these characters lead multiple lives whilst belonging to everyone.
