BIO :

This artist was born in Saigon (Vietnam) in 1942.

CAREER :

Whilst at secondary school in Saigon, Roseline Lé Minh undertook several years of training in watercolour painting. After studying mathematics at university in Paris, she divided her time between family life and painting. Her early work was characterised by figurative art. In her constant search for a more personal form of expression, she gradually moved away from any allusion or reference to reality to find her full fulfilment in what the artist calls 'magical abstraction'. She expresses this technique through an intimate relationship with colour, an introspection of the material, and a sort of barely restrained effervescence on the surface.

WORK :

Perfectly balanced, Roseline Lé Minh's compositions come alive through the encounter between emptiness and fullness, smoothness and roughness, the indefinitely large and the infinitely small. Since 1992, she has been working in the monumental painting studio at the Watermael-Boistfort Academy, where she is able to carry out her research and experimentation with materials and textures.
