BACKGROUND :

Originally from Bolivia, the family moved to Spain, where he spent his childhood. His varied career path has led him to work in fields ranging from multimedia (computer graphics, web design) to illustration and comic books. At the age of 36, he swapped his role as a creative professional for that of an artist and decided to devote himself entirely to his passion: painting.

WORK :

Fully rooted in our times, his work draws its inspiration from our daily lives. Alfredo celebrates the ordinary. His subject of study: Westerners. Alfredo's mythology depicts the multitude of insignificant acts carried out with joy and good humour that make up our lives. His works are allegories of various themes: pleasure, work, the business world, love, and intoxication.

These depictions of everyday life, particularly in the West, are characterised by their consistently vibrant colours and the central, imposing presence of the figure within the work. Each of his canvases reminds us that happiness is here and now, in the small details of life. These perspectives offer a faithful portrait of who we are.
