HIS BIOGRAPHY AND CAREER:

After a career in research and varied training (CAPA Aubervilliers, AREAS workshops with B. Téoccoli), Pascal Mathé, born in 1959, found his own mode of expression in a rather figurative style.

HIS WORK:

His current work exploits the flickering, somewhat unreal images reproduced by our television and computer screens. He wants his paintings to bear witness to his fascination with these distorted images, imperfect focus, saturated or muted colours, and lingering bright spots.

He attempts to rediscover vague outlines, indistinct and floating shapes that eventually take on meaning and colour. He restores the blur, which is more evocative of the changing nature of life.

Through this deliberate freeze frame, framed according to his own perception and then recreated on canvas (other than that of the Internet), Pascal Mathé seeks to express an urban, melancholic and shifting atmosphere.
