BIO :

Dominique Vanrykel is a Belgian artist born in 1965 near Liège.

CAREER :

The artist currently teaches art to both young people and adults. In the early 1990s, he truly began his unique journey into semi-abstract painting.

WORK :

His small figures, initially inspired by his daughter Déborah's childhood drawings in the early 1990s, form the central theme of his work. They transport you into the artist's world, which floats between rhythm, joie de vivre, fragility and unusual movement. The composition of his canvases is always linked to the golden ratio; colour dominates through bright, positive tones as well as through complementary contrasts. The unity of his themes fits perfectly within the wide variety of techniques presented here: acrylic, collages, sand, reliefs and splashes. This constant source of inspiration has led to a steady growth in his body of work in recent years.
