Paul De Bruyne is a Belgian artist. He is a civil engineer and has been an independent entrepreneur since 1983.

BACKGROUND:

Paul De Bruyne has been interested in art for many years. However, he only took up painting in 2013, teaching himself without any constraints. Extremely productive, he has perfected his technique through experience. Some of his paintings are now represented by international galleries, and two of his works were recently exhibited at the Florence Biennale of Contemporary Art.

WORK:

Paul De Bruyne's works are the result of spontaneous, unrestrained creation. However, the compositions are far from chaotic. The contrasts and colours seem to harmonise and sometimes blend together as if by magic. So much so that the works, although very similar, seem to invite us to immerse ourselves in infinity...
