Biography:

Livio Marcolli was born in 1966 in Marrakesh and moved to Belgium at the age of 18.

Career:

He studied Visual Communication at St Luc Tournai. After working as a graphic designer in the multimedia sector and then in the print media, he now devotes himself to painting.

Artistic Approach:

"I have known Livio since 1987; I have always seen him painting, and he was already painting well before we first met. I think he has experimented with everything, starting with the abstract and ending with the figurative, an approach that has always strayed from the beaten track but with a single constant: excellence. Just as eclectic in his choice of exhibitions in Brussels, from the Galerie de la Toison d'Or to the Place du Jeu de Balle... but also in Italy, France and Morocco. He returns to us here with a series of portraits that symbolise Belgian identity. Behind a certain lightness, we find a structure that corresponds to the image of reality, in which the elements generated by the imagination possess this quality of physical proximity and psychological experience. In short, we recognise ourselves in them."
