Biography :

Michèle Mahy was born in Huy in 1962 and studied graphic design and advertising at St-Luc in Liège. She has been based in Brussels since 1988, where she works as a graphic designer.

Career :

She took courses in drawing and acrylic painting for 11 years at the Jean-Jacques Gaillard Institute in St Gilles (Brussels) and regularly exhibits her work at home and in various cultural venues across the capital, either solo or in collaboration with other artists.

Works :

Her painting is instinctive and spontaneous. The artist allows her emotions to flow freely and, through her brushwork, conveys her feelings of the moment. Her highly colourful, abstract-leaning works may be seen as figurative by some viewers seeking deeper meanings. The materials and textures (sand, sawdust, gel, impasto, fabrics) used on the canvas are a nod to nature, travel and everyday life. Her painting brings her calm and serenity; the outside world fades away as her fingers, brushes, rags and other tools come to life.
