WORK :

“Like a bird in the sky, Nicole Doneux punctuates her artistic journey with a multitude of sensory landmarks. Whilst her many years of practice have led her to the heart of abstraction, she reveals to us visions that are unfamiliar yet immediately recognisable. Lands of welcome, of rain and sunshine, where ochres sweep across the fields, where Arthur’s (Rimbaud) ultramarine skies remind us of his fiery funnels.
Here, painting becomes a metaphor for inner landscapes.
To leave a lasting impression on the sensitive recesses of our imagination, the artist creates a dialogue between barely perceptible washes and nourishing, heavy clay. This technique, which surprisingly works—like a meeting of the impossible—offers us its clamour, and there we are, alone, chin raised, beneath the starry vault. For this painting, which is both chromatic and textural, Nicole Doneux sometimes aims for large formats. Colour, in its complex and infinite relationships, is always bold, and its roughness is even capable of gentleness."
